Tokens expire 365 after purchase and there is no automatic renewal, but purchasing additional tokens is as easy as selection from the tiered options available on our website.

Assign your own administrator to manage your corporate subscription. Your administrator manages employee access to your bank of tokens which are then used to register for any of our self-study courses. Administrators can always see which employees have access to tokens, how many tokens are remaining in their package, and can easily add or remove learners or other administrators at any time.

Self-study courses are available in a single purchase format or can be incorporated into a company subscription plan. Pricing is based on the number of course enrollments, or we may be able to develop an unlimited plan for you. Contact us to find out more.
